Policy Overview

To address an identified trend in upcoding by emergency room providers, the health plan has adopted a program integrity strategy that will provide appropriate levels of reimbursement for services indicating lower levels of complexity or severity rendered in the emergency room.

Application

Hospitals, free-standing emergency centers, physicians or other qualified health professionals.

Reimbursement

The Center for Medicaid and Medicare Services (CMS) affords states the flexibility to independently develop reimbursement methodologies for the use of emergency department services for lower levels of complexity or severity.

When a hospital, free-standing emergency center or physician bills a level 4 (99284) or level 5 (99285) emergency room service, with a diagnosis indicating a lower level of complexity or severity, the health plan will reimburse the provider at a level 3 (99283) reimbursement rate. A provider may appeal if the provider disagrees with how the claim was adjudicated.

Policy Description

The Federal Balanced Budget Act (BBA) of 1997 and the Medicaid statute has established the definition of an “Emergency Medical Condition (EMC)” as follows:

A medical condition manifesting itself by acute symptoms of sufficient severity (including severe pain) such that a prudent layperson, who possesses an average knowledge of health and medicine, could reasonably expect the absence of immediate medical attention to result in:

- Placing the health of the individual (or, with respect to a pregnant woman, the health of the woman or her unborn child) in serious jeopardy;
- Serious impairment of bodily functions; or
- Serious dysfunction of any body organ or part.

The hospital’s Emergency Medical Treatment and Labor Act (EMTALA) provides that a hospital with a dedicated emergency department must provide an appropriate medical screening examination to determine whether or not an emergency medical condition exists. The hospital must also provide stabilizing treatment or an appropriate transfer to a more appropriate setting. The purpose of the medical screening examination is to determine whether or not an emergency medical condition exists.

Prior authorization is not required for emergency medical services.
